

These downloadable, printable activity pages are reproductions of the Activity Pages that are included in the book Seven Viking Days: Deluxe Edition, which is available to buy at Amazon. (ISBN 9798356237157)

Activity Pages

Sun says, "Now that you've learned the days of the week with Canute, I invite you to have fun on the following pages by using what you learned. . . along with your imagination and creativity!"

Identify the Days

"Ask someone to read you the names of the days below, and then point to the correct symbol for that day, or draw a line to connect the day to the correct symbol."

Sunday

Monday

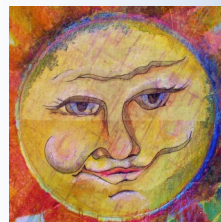

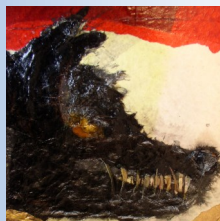

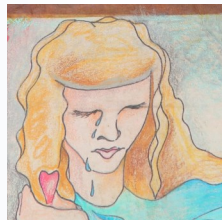

Tuesday

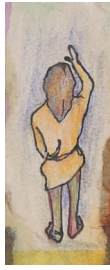

Wednesday

Thursday

Friday

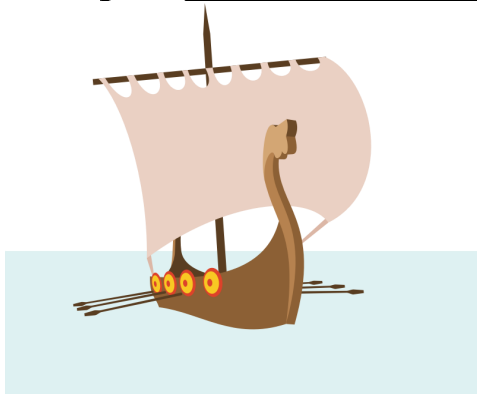

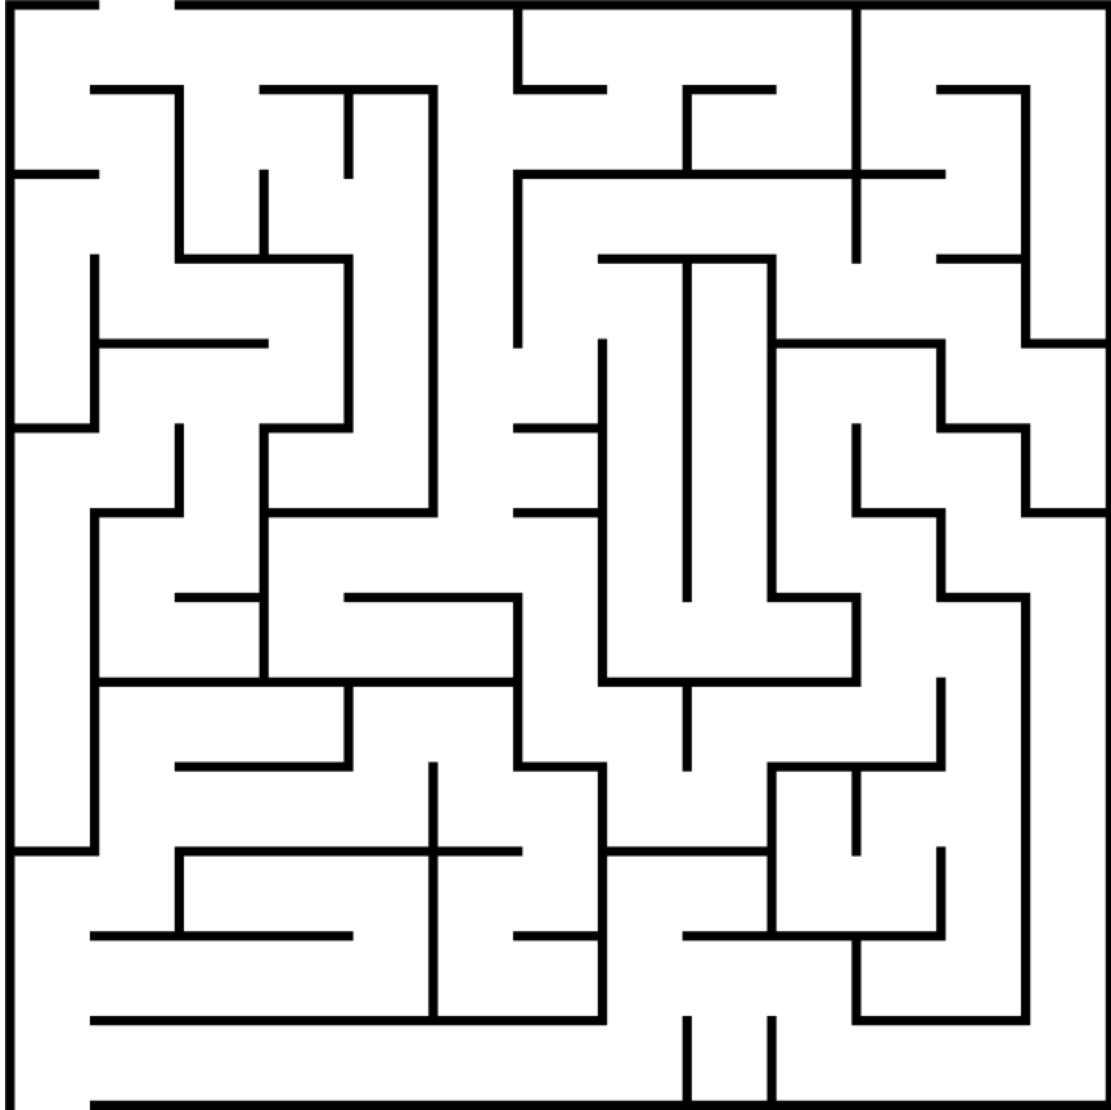

Saturday

Canute's Voyage With His Father

Canute says, "Please help me get through this maze in order to arrive at my father's longship."

Source of maze alone: Public Domain, by Adam Stanislav, from <https://openclipart.org/detail/246730/simple-maze-puzzle>.

Source of Viking ship: Public Domain, by oksmith, from <https://openclipart.org/detail/317144/viking-ship>.

“Where does Canute sail on his voyage with his father?” Sun asks. “On this page, you can either draw a picture of where they went, or ask an adult to help you write the words.”

Which 2 Are The Same?

Source: Public Domain images from <https://openclipart.org/>.

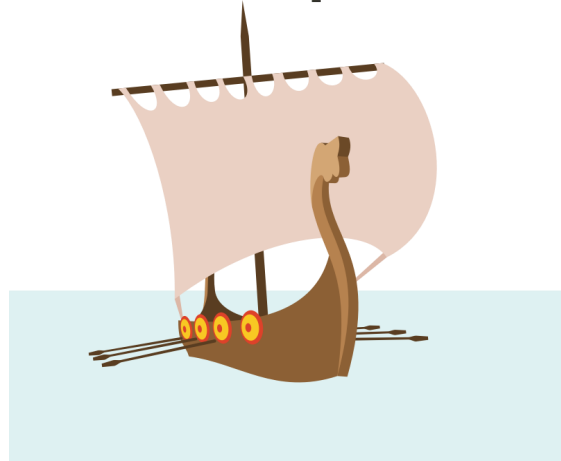

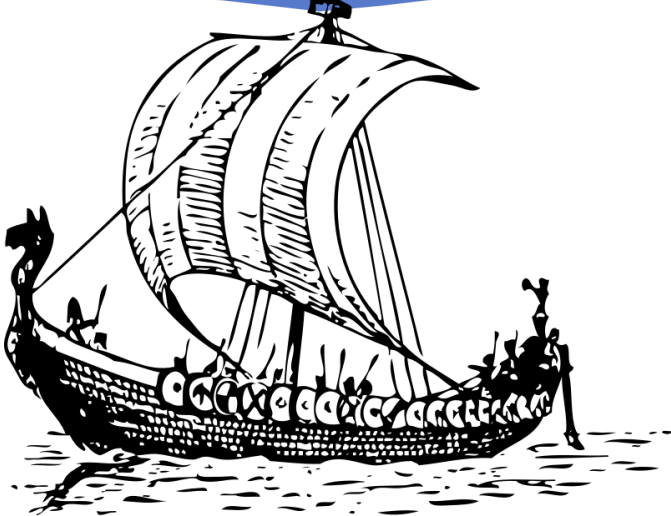

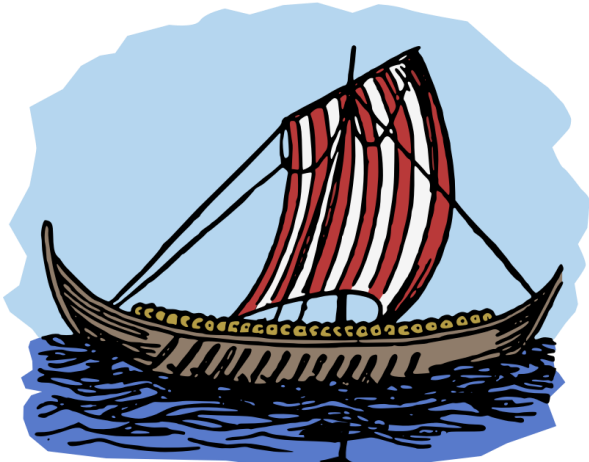

“Which day of the week do you like best? Here you can draw some of the things that happen, or that you like to do, during your favorite day.”

Connect The Dots

Canute says, "Draw a line from dot to dot in correct numerical order to reveal the picture!"

Which 2 Are The Same?

Source: Public Domain images from <https://openclipart.org/>.

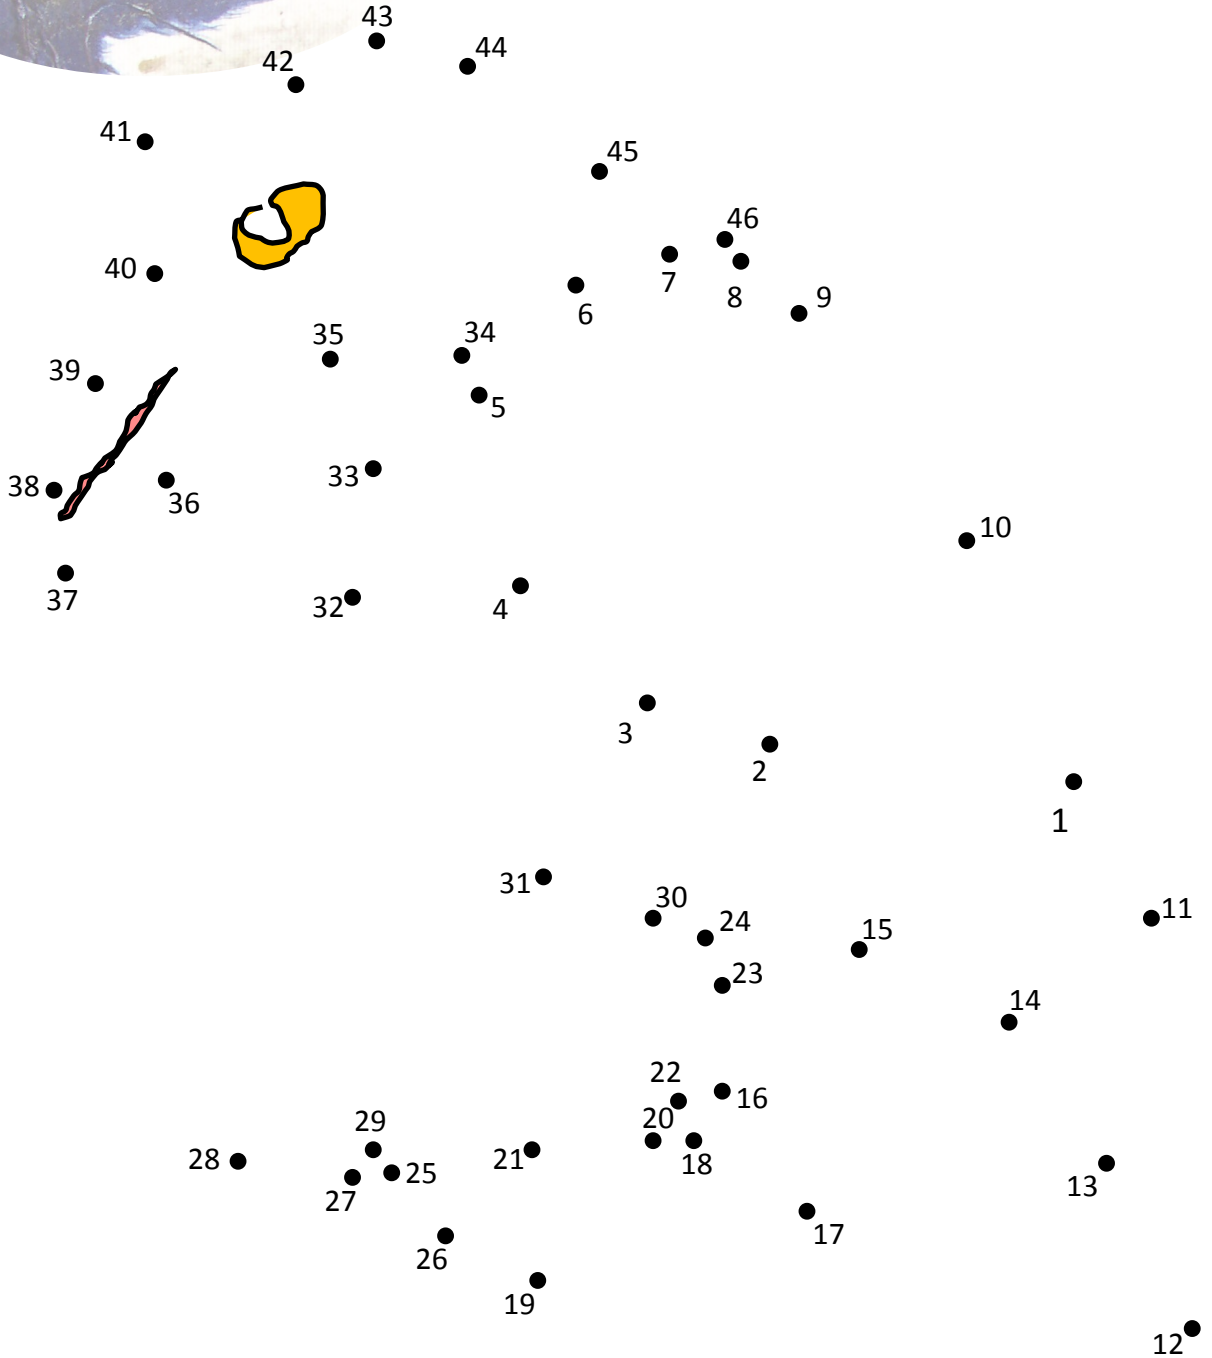

Create Canute

Canute says, "You might have noticed that my face never appeared in this book. So here is your chance to reveal what I look like.

"On this page, you may either draw my face or ask an adult to take a photo of a Viking's face—maybe yours!—then print it and tape it onto this page."

Connect The Dots

Sun says, "This dot-to-dot drawing is a bit more challenging. After you connect the dots, you can color this picture."

Find the Rhymes

Canute says, "Throughout this book, every day contains at least one pair of words that rhyme.

Ask an adult to help you find them, and also to write them on this page."

*"When Thor
hurls it through the skies,
you want to cover
your ears and eyes."*

"Now you can ask an adult to take a photo of any of your drawings — of my face, of your favorite day, where I sailed with my father, and even a photo of this page with the rhymes you found — and send the photo to photos@leecuesta.com, with the adult's permission."*

* Note to the adult: Submitting a photo of any of these pages implicitly grants permission and consent for it to be posted on the book's website, <https://www.vikingdaysbook.com/>.

Start A Diary

A diary is a special book of your own. In this book, you can write or draw what you did on each day. Later, you might look at this book to remember the fun things you did. What did you do on Sun's Day, Moon's Day, Tiu's Day, Woden's Day, Thor's Day, Frigg's Day, Saturn's Day? Ask an adult to help you create this special book, and here's how: You can remove the page to the right by cutting along the dotted line. Then cut out the symbols for each day.

In a wirebound (or spiral) notebook, divide the pages into seven sections. On the first page, write the words "My Diary." At the top of the next page, glue or tape the symbol for Sunday. Then, at the beginning of the next section, glue or tape the symbol for Monday. Continue this process throughout the book.

To use this special book, turn to the section that is the same as today. Write today's actual date. Now draw pictures or ask an adult to help you write the words in order to describe what you did today. You can use this diary for many weeks by repeating this process.

CUT HERE

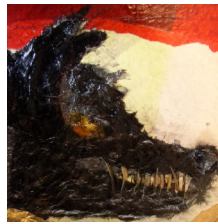

Moon's Day

MONDAY

Tiu's Day

TUESDAY

Woden's Day

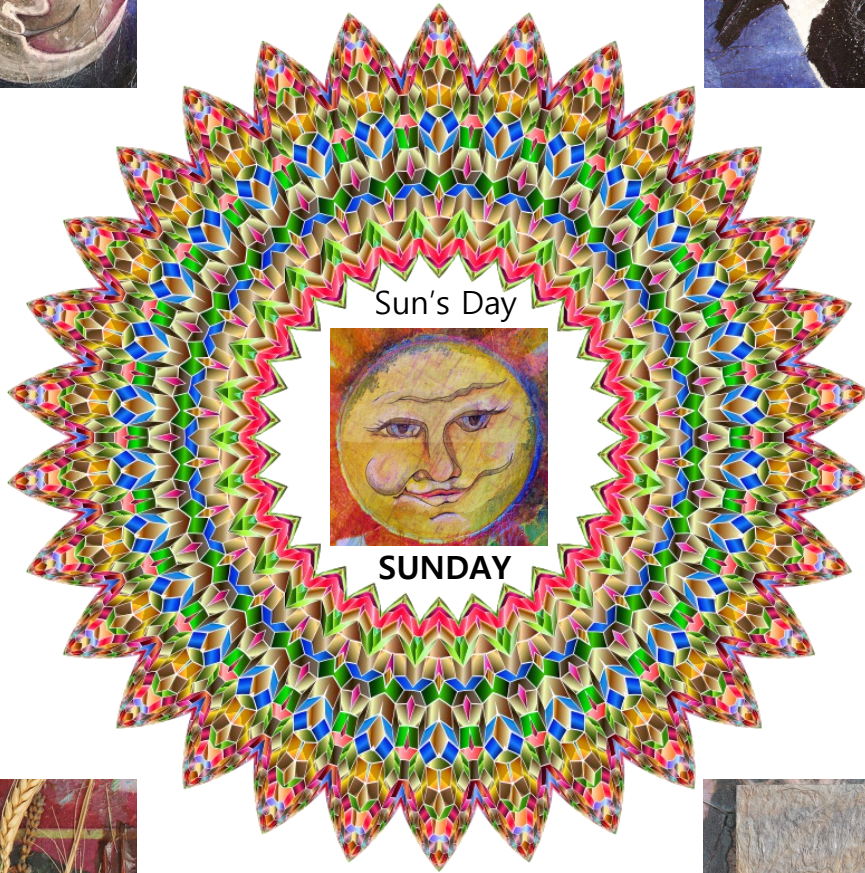

WEDNESDAY

Sun's Day

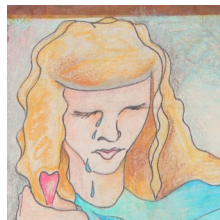

SUNDAY

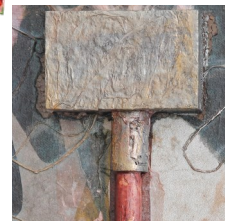

Saturn's Day

SATURDAY

Frigg's Day

FRIDAY

Thor's Day

THURSDAY

Source of mandala alone:

Public Domain from <https://openclipart.org/detail/258876/chromatic-iridescent-mandala-2>

Copyright © 2022 by Lee Cuesta